K. R. Jeffers Appointed New Dean Of Women

Dr. Katherine R. Jeffers, of Duke University has been appointed to succeed Dr. Grace Warren Landrum as dean of women it was announced today by President John E. Pomfret. Dr. Landrum will retire from her duties as dean and professor of English at the close of the present school year.

A native of California, Pa., Dr. Jeffers first attended the University of Missouri from which she received both her bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees. She later attended the University of Berlin as a fellow from Bryn Mawr College. In 1932 she was granted a doctor of philosophy degree from Bryn Mawr. She served for two years as a National Research fellow at McGill University,

KATHERINE R. JEFFERS

Canada and in 1936 she became an instructor of zoology at Missouri. At present she is a member of the Duke University faculty.

In addition to her duties as dean of women, Dr. Jeffers will serve as an associate professor of biology.

Dr. Landrum has been dean of women at William and Mary since 1927. She received her doctor's degree from Radcliffe College and holds the distinction of being the first southern woman to be graduated from Radcliffe. Before coming to William and Mary, Dr. Landrum was at the University of Virginia. See JEFFERS, Page 3

Sherry Will Head Honor Committee

Bob Sherry was chosen to head the Men's Honor council at its first meeting, held on Thursday, May 1.

Members of the new council also elected Tom Athey, vice president, and Wally Harrison, secretary. The council, chosen in the elections of Apr. 26, consists of Sherry, Athey, and Howard Hyle, senior members; Harrison, Dick Beatty, and Warren Sprouse, junior members; and Clint Baker, sophomore member.

Abuses Threaten Tavern's Closing

"Students should not have the idea that they own Chownings; and it will have to be closed to students if things keep going the way they have been," stated Allison W. Boyer, assistant to the president of Colonial Williamsburg, Inc., to a group of students last Thursday.

Mr. Boyer went on to say that restoration officials are extremely anxious to work with the college so the most can be obtained from the restoration facilities. The management at Chownings has announced that 203 beer mugs have disappeared over a period of 18 days, and that students are on the same status as tourists, in that both are guests.

"The stealing of the beer mugs indicates a lack of cooperation on the part of the students," said Mr. Boyer, "and might affect the student use of other facilities." This would include the Lodge game room, the Inn swimming pool, and the new Inn golf course.

Backdrop Club To Raise Curtain On "The Heat's On" Friday Night

Sixth Annual Show To Feature Hell

After a four-year absence, the traditional William and Mary Varsity Show will return to the boards when the curtain rises Friday night on The Heat's On. Performances will be given on Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10, at 8 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa auditorium.

Six production numbers will be featured in the Backdrop club offering, subtitled Mephistofollies of 1947.

The show consists of two acts, and has a cast of over 60 members. More than 100 students have assisted with the program, and all words and music are original.

Back To Hell

Numbers for the sixth annual varsity show include a Russian number by Rux Birnie and June Haller, a New York scene, a New Orleans number by Beegie Grant and Jean Cutler, a Kentucky number by Eddie Anderson and a South American scene featuring Ginna Lewis.

Following an entre acte by the Bray twins, the program will continue with a scene in the Greek's and sorority court. The finale is entitled "Back to Hell."

Bill Smith, president of the Backdrop club, is producer of the show, and Ken McGinn is director. Jeanne Lamb, Ronald King, Dick Owen and Dick Beatty are the chief scripters. Music and dances are directed by Dick Beatty and Jean Cutler, and set-designer Wilford Leach is head of the stage crew.

Leads in the show are taken by Ken McGinn, who plays the devil, and Bill Propert, who plays the devil's assistant, Humphrey. Musical accompaniment will be provided by two pianos.

Tickets for the production will be $1.25 for reserved seats and $1.00 for all other seats.

Helen Douglas To Speak May 18

Helen Gahagan Douglas, United States Representative to Congress from California, will visit William and Mary as a guest of the Women's Student Cooperative Government and will speak on Sunday, May 18, in Phi Beta Kappa.

Mrs. Douglas not only has a brilliant career in politics but also has a background of achievement as an actress and singer. She was born in Boonton, New Jersey, and was educated at Berkeley Institute, where her interest in drama was encouraged. After completing two years at Barnard College of Columbia University, in 1932, she and a friend wrote and appeared in a play entitled Shadows on the Moon. Miss Gahagan had many professional parts immediately following her appearance in this play and soon had a rocket-like rise to full stardom.

After six years on the stage, however, Miss Gahagan gave up her career as an actress and went to Italy to study opera. Her opera debut was in Czechoslovakia, where she sang La Tosca in Italian, with the rest of the cast singing in Czechoslovakian. After traveling around Europe for a while as an opera singer, she returned to the stage in New York in September 1930, when she appeared in Belasco's Tonight or Never. It was here that she met Melvin Douglas, who was a member of See HELEN DOUGLAS, Page 4

Amphitheatre Construction Progresses Despite Rain

Work is progressing on the Matoka Amphitheatre, which will be the site of the Jamestown Corporation production, The Common Glory. The play by Paul Green will open July 17.

Although work was hindered by the spring rains, progress has been made towards the completion of the theatre by June Finals. The ground sloping down to the lake has been graded; the paths have become roads used to haul supplies. The foundation for the stage has been laid out. To the left and right of the stage are the dressing rooms and costume buildings, which are nearly completed. The stage is 62 feet across, and the amphitheatre will seat 2500 when it is completed.

The Jamestown Corporation met Saturday, May 3, in Richmond with Paul Green and directors of the little theatres and college theatres of Virginia. The meeting was called in order to decide on plans for recruiting actors and technicians from the state.

Frank Dementi of Richmond took pictures of students in colonial costume last week. The photographs, taken at the Governor's Palace, the Court House steps, the Wren building corridor and Blue room, and Brafferton, will be used for publicity purposes.

Honor Fraternities To Tap Thursday

Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa, top campus honoraries, will hold their first post-war joint tapping service in a special convocation at 10 a. m. on Thursday, May 8, in Phi Beta Kappa auditorium.

The program of the convocation will include talks by Nonnie Fehse, Mortar Board president, and Harry Stinson, ODK president, and alternating tapping by the members of each group.

The joint tapping ceremonies of the men's and women's honorary organizations were a yearly event before the war. During the war, ODK suspended activities, reactivating last spring. Members of both groups are chosen on the basis of service, leadership and scholarship.

Haserot Resigns Post On College Faculty

Dr. Francis S. Haserot, associate professor of philosophy, has resigned from the college, Dr. Sharvy G. Umbeck, dean of the faculty, has announced.

On leave of absence during the 1946-47 term, Dr. Haserot came to William and Mary in 1936. He has retired in order to devote his time to writing and studying. He received his B. S. and M. A. degrees from Columbia University and his Ph. D. from Harvard.

German Club Dance To Portray Night Club

"Pocahontas Club," German club co-ed spring dance, will be held on Saturday, May 10, in Blow gymnasium from 9 to 12 p. m.

A band from Newport News will furnish music for the informal affair, which will have a night club theme for the decorations. Committee chairmen for the event are Betsy Platt, refreshments; Jean Myers, decorations; and Margie Oak, publicity.

Moore Crowned Monarch Of May

Fran Moore was crowned Queen of the May by President John E. Pomfret and reigned over the May Day festivities held in the Sunken Garden on Saturday, May 3, at 3 p. m.

Fran was elected queen by members of the student body when they voted for their choice of the seven nominees. The members of Fran's court were Barbara Duborg, Tooker Ewart, Robbie Robinson, Martha Lamborn, Jean Myers and Betty Littlefield.

Following the crowning of the queen, five members of Orchesis, the modern dance group, presented a dance. The annual intramural song contest, in which each sorority sang one original college song and one spring song, was won by Alpha Chi Omega with their original song, "Williamsburg," and "When You Wore a Tulip." Phi Mu's "Ode to the Night Watchman" took second place; Chi Omega was third and Kappa Kappa Gamma fourth.

The May Day week-end festivities, which started with a semi-formal dance in Blow gym on Friday night, were sponsored by the three councils of the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association.

Hyle Takes Presidency; Eighteen Join Assembly

Howard Hyle was elected president of the Student Body in the balloting held Friday, May 2, in Phi Beta Kappa vestibule. He defeated Walter Coleman and Jim Fitzpatrick, other nominees for the office.

Other officers elected at this time were representatives to the Student Assembly. From the 56 names on the ballot, 6 were chosen from each class.

Hyle, a present junior is from Catonsville, Md. He was away from William and Mary for three years, serving in the army where he was a prisoner of war in Germany. Since his return to school, he has served as secretary to the Men's Honor Council, representative to the Student Assembly, and a President's Aide. Hyle is a dorm proctor for Monroe hall. He is a member of the Varsity club,

At the last meeting of the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association, a cooperative bookstore was proposed and a committee was appointed to investigate the idea. The committee plans to write a letter to Mr. Duke to be presented to the Board of Visitors, after it has completed research on the cooperative store.

Thus far the committee has discovered that such book stores have been established on campuses all over the country. Most of them work as Yale's, but there are variations on the plan to suit a particular school's needs. Where such a store exists, students find that it operates to their advantage, books are less expensive, exchange of books is facilitated, etc.

Co-operative Book Store

If such a store is to be established at William and Mary a corporation will have to be set up with capital stock furnished by the students. The Yale Co-operative Corporation reports that a board of directors composed of six undergraduates manage the store. A yearly membership fee is imposed on all students and the store is then run on a regular retail basis as far as margin of profit is concerned. At the close of each year the profits are determined, and if they exceed cost of operation rebates are made to the students.

Before this project can be established here the Board of Visitors will have to give their consent, the students will have to agree to the plan, and the corporation will have to be set up. We suggest that extensive investigation be made. Mr. Chandler, manager of the Wigwam, has told us that at present the regular margin of profit is made on all books and supplies sold. What we do not know is whether the book store is making money from this margin of profit. If such is the case, the plan would be worth serious consideration. However, if the students could not benefit by owning their own cooperative store, the difficulties in establishment would exceed any advantages.

At any rate, a carefully worked out plan will have to be presented to the Board of Visitors along with sound reasons for the plan. We suggest that before this goes to the Board of Visitors, it should be presented to the Student Assembly for approval.

L. M.

We think the College is doing a fine job of cleaning up the campus. Maybe our criticism of poor campus maintenance in years past was unfair and really because of the war; but at any rate this generation of college students has never seen things in such a good state of repair.

There is still a shortage of laborers and money; nevertheless, all the walks are being repaired and many new ones have been constructed to replace well-worn paths that have long been eyesores on campus. Mr. Duke tells us that already $18,000 have been spent on this project alone.

Spring Cleaning The Campus

Besides the walks, dead trees have been removed and the grass has been fertilized on front campus by the Restoration, which maintains that portion of the College. The minor jungle in front of Barrett and Chandler halls was cut down last fall and the College is now grading and seeding that area with the intention of landscaping it.

The eternal painting is going on; this spring; Rogers and Washington are on the agenda. Sparsely grassed areas are being resodded and seeded. Evidently the administration is optimistically hoping the students will keep off it, but in some spots gentle reminders to "please use walks" have been put up.

By June we can be justifiably proud of our campus.

The William and Mary-Go-Round

Once again student elections have passed and new personnel enter into the picture to handle the student government machinery for the coming year. Some of this machinery will be handled by skilled workers and other parts will be handled by unskilled and neophyte politicians. At any rate, the students elected what they considered capable men and women to guide them in their affairs pertaining to student activities. The job ahead requires the utmost in honest and efficient care. The students have put their trust in the leaders and most of the student body will adhere to the leaders' judgment and follow them in what seems to be a fair and reasonable course.

One of the largest and most important tasks confronting the newly elected officers will be that of completing the work of overhauling the present puny, cumbersome, and power-lacking student constitution to a constitution that will mean something to the student body now and in the future. The task is gigantic in many respects, but with proper approach toward solving the innumerable problems this task can be accomplished with comparative ease. Naturally, it will mean the change of thought of several obstructionists, but the rule of reason can and should apply in this case.

We believe that a Men's Senate and a judicial body for the men is badly needed... specifically to cover the points mentioned in last week's column. There should be a closer relationship of the Interfraternity association to that of the men students whether they be fraternity men or non-fraternity men. With a tightly knit and very much inter-related men's governing organization, the men students will find that their specific problems can be handled with ease and efficiency.

The work ahead for the students not in office will be to rally around the leaders they selected and support them to the utmost for a better student government.

IDLE CHATTER

There is much speculation as to the reasons for the cannons which adorn the entrance to the Wren Building. Probably they are there to ironically suggest the modern plan of education which hardly can be cannonized, or maybe to threaten the students who fails to pass nine hours. Or they may be monuments of the old feuds between the college and the town when all 75 of the student body used to rally at the summons of the old bell and take over the town. All of this brings to mind the remarks by one of the visiting firemen... tourist, if you will... "Look at these cute little guns, dear. Wouldn't it be nice if we had some to place in front of our home?" More than likely she would use them to "git the reve-nors" or inquisitive census takers.

CAMPUS CHAFF

In relation to the "Keep the Campus Clean" campaign, one might ask that the truck drivers use a little discretion in driving around campus and they, too, can keep the hell off! The truck driver who persists in driving in front of Barrett Hall offers no incentive to keep the campus neat and attractive. Also, those truck drivers who insist upon using the lawns adjoining the library and Monroe Hall as a turntable... just so they can leave the campus via the same gate in which they entered. At one time it was believed that sidewalks were to be used by and for pedestrians. This is no longer true... cars, and trucks, having taken the place of the horse and buggy, have enlarged the scope of their operations to include the poor, sad pedestrian.

Pritchard Views Varsity Show

Twelve Feet Above Stage

We've sat down to write this column in many places but today we have found the most unusual and distracting. We're seated on a platform about twelve feet above the Phi Beta Kappa stage on the left. It is not uncomfortable for we are sitting on a coil of ropes which run in every direction above the stage. But what's happening below is much more interesting.

At the rear of the stage Willie Leach and a small crew of stage workers are working on a backdrop... A backdrop of New York City with its dirty old buildings. Some are perched on ladders above us and others are below but all are brandishing paint brushes with a vengeance. Their battle scars are not serious but they were present... streaks and spots of paint from head to toe.

Every few minutes director McGinn shouts "quiet," and another scene is rehearsed with the director singing another song, "shout it out, I can't hear you." Choreographer Jean Cutler shoves his dancers around like rubber dolls getting them in place and Dick Beatty pounds out the music on the piano. The vocalists concentrate on knocking out the back windows with their voices and all is confusion, especially to the neophyte.

And, all this goes on from six to eight hours a day. Because Phi Beta has been reserved until this week for other stage productions and musical concerts, the Backdrop club must whip its show into shape in a week. Of course, the individual numbers have been rehearsed for almost two weeks in Wren kitchen and the small cafeteria, so now the problem is one of coordination. And, hour by hour, the show looks better and better. Ken and Bill Probert will have no trouble putting across their leading roles in a big way. The problem will be who can steal the show from them and there are plenty of contenders. It's going to be a race to see who can do the biggest job on the smallest parts... all of which goes to make a good show. We predict some excellent things from Bill Smith in the demure role of Cuthbert, Bill Knowles as the veddy British Lord B, Ginna Lewis as a very vivacious South American seniorita, a la Carmen Miranda. To all this add the rhythm of the dancers Ruth Volkert and Gene Heck doing a "sexy" bolero, Gene Cutler and Bill Hux in the Russian number, and a chorus line in many scenes. And, in an entr'acte, the Brays will probably have to do a dozen encores.

That's the way it looks from atop our perch. Now, we expect everyone will be envious of those who have parts in the show so we're going to give out with a hot tip. Anyone who would like to answer "yes" to the question, "Are you with it?" can join the show as a member of the stage crew. There's still plenty to be done and Phi Beta will be open every afternoon and evening this week. Your equipment must be a pair of blue jeans and an old shirt. You'll be furnished with the weapons when you get there. And, take it from us, you don't need experience. Right now we look as though we were all made up for a blackface number and we love it. So, come on, and GET WITH IT.

And, come Friday and Saturday nights, bring your gals, your pals and maybe your professors... 'cause from now on, THE HEAT'S ON!

Letters To The Editor Discuss

Indiscreet Conduct, Support of June Finals

To the Editor:

At the April meeting of the Women Student's Cooperative Government Association a letter was read to the students pointing out indiscreet conduct on the part of the William and Mary students. Such conduct includes public love-making, display of alcoholic beverages, and other conspicuous behavior.

If we stop to think how this appears to tourists visiting Williamsburg and to local residents, then we would be more careful of such activities. Everyone agrees that affection is here to stay, but as I see it public manifestations of deep affections are severe breaches of decorum. Holding hands is not in this category. To the sane, rational college student it is inconceivable that allegedly mature men and women should so degrade themselves in public. Such action casts a bad light on the college rather than on the individual, and the faculty and administration suffers because of this degradation.

In conclusion it should be remembered that the stopping of public love-making lies entirely in the hands of the students involved.

Sincerely,

Name withheld on request.

To the Editor:

The last I heard only 20 advance tickets had been sold for June Finals. This is certainly an indication of lack of cooperation on the part of the students.

The President's Aides, the Jamestown Corporation and the College are all working feverishly to provide the biggest June Finals William and Mary has ever seen, and we, the students, must do our part to make it a big success.

The advance sale of tickets will be the barometer which will tell approximately how many students plan to go to June Finals, and so far the barometer is reading mighty low.

There has been a pessimistic attitude among some students regarding the completion of the amphitheatre in time for the dance. Many won't attend the dance unless it is given out-of-doors. However, the Jamestown Corporation officials have positively promised the use of the amphitheatre for the students by time for June Finals.

We've been griping about the indoor finals for three years, so let's get out and support the plans for this one.

Very truly yours,

Name withheld by request.

Editor's Note:

Perhaps this situation will be alleviated with the announcement Bren Macken made today that the advance sale of June Finals tickets at the reduced rate of $6 will continue through Saturday, May 10. Bren stated that the change in date was necessitated by the late arrival of veteran's subsistence checks.

Priest Discusses High Wind In Lorraine

Last week's production of Maxwell Anderson's diffuse contribution to the current theatre, Joan of Lorraine, was an ambitious and meritorious achievement in the face of stupendous textual difficulties.

Ginna Lewis played a sympathetic and often superlative part in the title role, rising to her best in the soliloquy in which she dedicates her armor, Act II. Miss Lewis exhibited an uncommon knowledge of her role, and a fine dramatic sense. In a difficult and lengthy role, her interpretation of the windy analyses of Joan's character was sometimes more convincing than the verbose speeches.

Ronnie King, as the director, was at all times master of the situation on stage. In many places where the script dries up in the rehearsal interludes, Mr. King's adroit coverage of the scene saved the Anderson vehicle from falling apart. His playing during the trial scene was a heartening contrast to the drabness of the script.

The supporting cast provided an admirable complement to the two stars. Clinton Atkinson, who cleverly portrayed the foolish Dauphin, was notable for his enunciation, some of the best in the production. He tossed off the Dauphin's peregrinations expertly. June Lochenour, playing the Dauphin's harlot, made her scene a happy interruption in the maze of pretentious verbiage.

Dick Owen, the court poet, carried off his role as the fop in a delightful manner, exhibiting natural aplomb. Jean Cutler, portraying the father of Joan, and the Bishop of Beauvais, was capable but for

Students To Vote Friday For Red Cross Officials

An open campus election of Red Cross officers will be held on Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10, from 4 to 5 p. m. in the lobby of Phi Beta Kappa hall.

Nominations for officers will be taken from the floor at a mass meeting on Thursday, May 8, at 4 p. m. in Washington 200. Jerry Willyard, president of the Red Cross, declared the purpose of this meeting was to allow all students to express their gripes.

A new voting procedure is being attempted in this election. Hand bills will be distributed to all students on Wednesday, May 7. Ballots will be printed on the back of these hand bills, which students should bring with them to the polls on May 9 and 10. Jerry urges a complete student vote.

Harold Eastman, vice chairman of the Red Cross, has been chosen as one of the representatives of college units who will serve as chairman of the Student Session at the National Red Cross convention in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 9 to 12.

The college unit at William and Mary is the first unit to give volunteer service at any state institution. Members of the Red Cross have been attending the Wednesday night dances at Eastern State Hospital and have been working in the afternoons as aides.

Both Dr. Landrum and Dr. Jeffers have received recognition in their respective fields. Dr. Landrum has done research and writing on Chaucer, Spenser and Keats, and today she is regarded as one of the ranking Spenserian scholars. She plans to continue this research at the Harvard University library upon retirement.

Crowds Laud W-M Choir On Recent Concert Tour

Enthusiastic receptions greeted the College Choir at every stop of its recent concert tour of Western Virginia and West Virginia.

In Roanoke an enthusiastic crowd of nearly 500 were present to hear the group and to invite them for a return engagement even before they left the Lee Auditorium. The choir then travelled to Salem, Virginia where they were the guests of the Andrew Lewis High School. There they presented two concerts for the student body and were rewarded by another invitation to include the school on their list of engagements in the future.

Said the Roanoke World News: "Seldom, if ever, has a college organization attempted such wide range of material in Roanoke. The choir did equally well with Handel and Kern or Bach and Dett. Blending of voices in such favorites as Jesu, Priceless Treasure, Song of the Russian Plains and Listen To The Lambs was beyond criticism. The shading of tones in this extremely difficult a cappella work was worthy of professionals. The entire program was rendered without accompaniment or use of printed music, thereby greatly enhancing audience reaction."

Bluefield Paper Praises
In Bluefield, West Virginia a delighted audience of nearly 500

heard the choir with attentiveness and appreciation. The Bluefield Sunset News wrote that the choir "closely approached the perfection of the famous Westminster Choir. From the opening chorus to the final alma mater song the group gave a faultless performance, reaching the pinnacle of charm and artistry. Mr. Fehr is one of the most masterful directors ever to appear in Bluefield."

From the Bluefield Telegram: "Good tone quality and lusty, reverberations were forthcoming from this group of William and Mary choristers as they went through a program of selections ranging from the Kern number and Negro spirituals to the magnificent Hallelujah, Amen by Handel."

Mr. Fehr has announced that the choir will go to Norfolk tomorrow for three concerts and will participate in the Jamestown Celebration on May 11.

Mrs. Douglas first became acutely aware of the existing social problems when she traveled through Arizona in 1932 and saw the numbers of migrants there. She became convinced at that time that the New Deal was what was needed to deal effectively with these problems.

In 1937, Mrs. Douglas went to Europe on a tour and saw the growing interest in Nazism becoming apparent. Upon her return, she joined as many anti-Nazi organizations as possible and was also a member of the Farm Security Administration, dealing with migratory worker's problems.

Mrs. Douglas, who states that she got into politics step by step, was active in campaigning for Roosevelt's election and she and Mr. Douglas often visited the president and his wife at the White House. In 1941, Mrs. Douglas became vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee and learned more about politics by helping to pick the progressive candidates.

In July 1944, Mrs. Douglas was

Indians To Enter SC Tennis Tourney

Baseball Squad To Meet Cavaliers, Yellow Jackets

With four games scheduled this week the Tribe baseball nine will have a very busy week. They play the Norfolk Naval Station today, tomorrow they meet the University of Virginia at Charlottesville and on Thursday, continuing the same road trip, they will meet the Generals of Washington and Lee. Saturday Randolph-Macon comes to Williamsburg for a single encounter.

Next Tuesday the Braves meet VPI in an engagement to be played in Blacksburg. They face V.M.I. there on Monday.

Briefly summarizing the above teams, the Naval Station handed Hampden-Sydney a 10-3 thumping a week ago. Randolph-Macon, after having a two-year string of over 15 straight games snapped a few weeks ago, has been intermittently hot and cold. They dropped a 5-4 game to Bridgewater, but came back two days later to drop Roanoke College, 7-3, incidentally, Roanoke's Maroons had upset VPI, 4-3, earlier in the week.

Virginia dropped W&M, 8-1, in their first engagement; W&L lost to the Tribe badly, 19-6, but have since improved, while VPI beat the Redmen, 6-3, in ten innings.

Last week the Braves won one game and dropped two. On Wednesday, Virginia pounded the right-handed slants of Stan Magdziak for 11 safe blows, including two home runs and a double, while the Cavalier twirler, Neal Wade, gave up six blows in leading his team to a 8-1, win over the Braves.

Indians Win

On Thursday the Indians made an about face as they turned back Camp Lee by virtue of the combined twirling of Randy Mallory, Jim Johnson and "Mac" McSherry, 8-1. The Braves made only five hits, but they were greatly aided by loose playing on the part of the Soldiers.

Saturday the Redmen met Hampden-Sydney in a return game. This contest went 10 innings as did the first; however, the results were not the same, this time the Tigers came from behind to annex a 4-3 win which was decided when Bob Gill hit a Tiger batman with the bases loaded. Alan Dawson hurled the first eight innings but he had to be relieved by Gill in the ninth. The Indians hitting attack was weak for the fourth straight time as the Tiger hurlers held the Indians to three hits.

Big Six Cindermen To Meet Saturday

This Saturday the annual Big Six track meet will be held in Williamsburg. The first preliminary events will begin in the morning. Virginia appears to be the strongest team, since they lost a very close track meet to Maryland; the Terps are supposed to have the best team in the conference. V.P.I.'s cindermen have won four straight, while the Indians have been improving steadily. V.M.I., Richmond and Washington and Lee are not too strong.

Tomorrow the Tribesmen play the Newport News Apprentice School in a return meet at Newport News. In the first engagement this year the Braves were victorious, 80-46.

Last Saturday the Indians captured their second meet of the year when they bested Richmond, 84-42. The Braves annexed 12 of the 14 firsts. Frank Rosenfeld placed first for the first time this year as he took the 100 and 220 dashes. Dick Scofield was another to hang up his first win as he took the mile; he also gained a second in the two-mile. John Brown became the first W&M man to win the pole vault this year as he jumped 10' 3".

Other winners were Harry Welling, Lou Creekmur, George Sheehan and Nelson Rancorn (tie), Walt Leonard, and Richard Drake.

Led by Bill Smith and George Miller, the Indian jayvee tennis squad blanked Woodberry Forest, 9-0, at Orange yesterday.

North Carolina Match Slated For Tomorrow

Having extended their string of consecutive victories to 37, the Indian tennis aces will spend four days at Chapel Hill, N. C., this week, facing the University of North Carolina tomorrow and competing in the Southern Conference tournament on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Victor Seixas, the Carolina star who holds the No. 16 ranking will face Gardner Larned in the feature attraction. Neither will be risking an unbeaten record, since Larned lost to Jack Tuero, of Tulane, and Seixas has suffered defeats at the hands of Ed Ray, of Yale and Army's Charles Oliver.

A comparison of their performances shows that Larned defeated Oliver, 6-0, 6-8, 6-2, while Seixas bowed to the Cadet netter, 6-3, 6-2. Hal Burrows, of Virginia, had Seixas at match point several times only to see his opponent pull out a 5-7, 11-9, 6-1 victory. Larned didn't have quite as much trouble, posting a 6-2, 5-7, 6-4 win over the No. 1 Cavalier. Whether the two have had any other mutual foes is unknown.

The Tribe has greater strength down the line than Carolina can muster. Against Fred Kovaleski and Captain Tut Bartzen they can pit only such men as Clark Taylor, Charles Rice, Jim Nicholson and Stan Gruner. With the exception of Seixas, Coach John Kenfield's squad can provide about the same brand of competition as last year's outfit, which the Braves defeated, 7-2, with Bartzen on the sidelines because of an ankle injury.

Tournament Chances

Coach Sharvy Umbeck's Indians will probably be favored to win the conference tournament, held for the first time since 1942. Last fall 15 of the 16 league schools signified that they intended to compete. It is uncertain, however, how many of these will enter. The total number of players participating will probably be between 50 and 75.

William and Mary has never come out on top in one of these tournaments, North Carolina having dominated the annual affair for many years.

Last week the Redmen hung up two more shutout victories, blanking Virginia, 9-0, at Charlottesville on Thursday and repeating the performance against Duke at Williamsburg on Saturday.

Burrows gave Larned one of his toughest matches, gaining a 4-3 lead in the final set before his big opponent managed to salvage a 6-2, 5-7, 6-4 victory. All other matches were won in straight sets, with only one going to deuce.

THE BIG FOUR who have sparked the Indian tennis victories of this season. Left to right: Bren Macken, Fred Kovaleski, Captain Tut Bartzen and Gardner Larned. The latter three will play against North Carolina tomorrow and participate in the Southern Conference tournament.

Betty Coumbe Wins Middle Atlantics

Bob Gill, Tribe's Ace Hurler, Pitches Top Game Of Season

By WALTER RAYMOND

Big Bob Gill, ace of the William and Mary pitching staff, hurled his best game and one of the best pitched contests ever seen at Cary Field a week ago, when he beat Richmond, 1-0. However, Bob who is always deadly serious and determined when on the mound has also had some pitching success earlier in his life.

Gill, a local Smithfield, Va., boy hurled his high school team to the county championship for four straight years; during this period he won 26 and lost but four. One of his games was a no-hitter, while he pitched several one hitters.

Attended W&L

After graduating in 1941 he attended Washington and Lee for a semester, took a government job in the fall of the same year and in the summer of 1943 went into the army.

His opportunity to further his baseball prowess came in the early part of 1944 when he was in Italy. For about five months he was able to play in the Italian league; hanging up a record of 12 and 1. During this time Bob played with Jack Netcher, recently a student at W&M, who is currently the property of the Washington Senators. Other members of Gill's team were Ed Smith, pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, and Bert Haas, regular first baseman for the Cincinnati Reds.

In September '44 his baseball career in Italy came to an end when he went to the front. After taking part in the battle at Cassino, all the mountain fighting and D-Day activity, he returned to the United States in June, 1945.

Bob, who is a sophomore, is a and began his collegiate baseball career that spring. The big right-hander hung up a 3-2 record. His most auspicious win was a 7-1 triumph over a strong V. P. I. aggregation, as he allowed the Gobblers but three hits. Another of his wins was a 4-3 verdict over Camp Perry.

Gill was married in January, 1944 to a Hampton, Va., girl, and they live in Matoaka Court here in Williamsburg.

Bob who is a sophomore is a member of Sigma Rho fraternity, and he played basketball for the winning Sigma Rho five last winter. He is majoring in physical education and intends to teach school upon his graduation.

Gill is the ace of the Indian pitching staff, and upon his strong right arm rest the Tribe hopes for state and conference baseball glory this year.

Lampe Bows To Teammate

By FRANCES HAWLEY

Betty Coumbe, No. 2 on the William and Mary tennis squad, upset her teammate Elaine Passow Lampe, No. 1 player, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5, to win the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Championship in Philadelphia yesterday. The tournament was played indoors because of bad weather.

Coumbe battled her way to the finals by defeating Jane Austin of Pennsylvania, last year's champion, who was seeded No. 1, by a score of 4-6, 9-7, 7-5, in the quarter-finals. Last year both Coumbe and Lampe were eliminated by Austin. Coumbe played a versatile and steady game in the principal upset of the tournament. After this match she easily defeated...

Softball Contests To End This Week

Continuing in full swing last week, the girls' intramural softball games will come to an end this week as the final matches for the championship will be played between winners of the various leagues.

Barrett defeated Chandler, 10-2, Chi O 2nd team downed Theta's 2nd, 19-4, Kappa Delta beat Kappa Alpha Theta, 14-9, and Gamma Phi 3rd suffered defeat from Chi O 3rd, 15-1.

On Tuesday, Apr. 29, the Tri Delt took Kappa Alpha Theta in a close 16-14 slugfest. Kappa Kappa Gamma hung up a 23-6 victory over Gamma Phi.

On Wednesday, Chandler bowed to Jefferson, 10-13, and Gamma Phi fell before Phi Mu, 13-8.

Brendan Macken Ruled Ineligible

Bren Macken, No. 4 man on the Tribe tennis squad, has been declared ineligible for further intercollegiate competition by the Southern Conference rules committee at a meeting held last Friday.

Rule seven, which relates to the limit of participation, states that no student shall be eligible if more than five years have passed since he entered college.

Macken entered McGill University, of Canada, in September, 1941, and withdrew in February, 1942, because of illness. He re-entered in September, 1943, and withdrew once more in October of the same year, again because of illness. Then he entered William and Mary in September, 1944.

Regardless of the fact that he has transferred no credits from McGill, Macken was declared ineligible and will not be able to participate in the National Intercollegiate or any further competition here.

Then on Thursday, Kappa Delta downed Gamma Phi, 11-4, Chi O 2nd took Tri Delt 2nd, 41-0, Kappa bowed to Theta, 8-7, and Kappa's 2nd took Theta's 2nd, 24-3.

feated Jane Abbott of Swarthmore, 6-1, 6-1, to enter the finals. Also, Lampe, seeded No. 2, stepped to the finals by defeating Poland of Bryn Mawr, Thorpe of Swarthmore, and Groves of Bryn Mawr, in the quarter-finals. In the semi-finals Lampe defeated Deborah Welsh, seeded No. 3, 8-6, 6-4, to enter the finals.

There were twelve colleges participating for the award of the rotating cup, presented by Mrs. John Prizer, former tennis star. The cup was previously won by Swarthmore, University of Pennsylvania, and is now held by the College of William and Mary.

In the Swarthmore match, playing without the aid of Lampe and Coumbe, the William and Mary Squaws suffered a 4-1 defeat. Marjorie Oak and Carol Newman bowed to their opponents in the singles, while Ruth Barnes won her match in three sets. In the doubles Betty Coumbe and Jean Bamforth, as well as Libby McLaughlin and Jane Oblender, lost to Swarthmore.

New intramural records may be set in several events, judging from preliminary times.

Dave Ballard became the new intramural tennis champion by beating George Gondelman, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3. The tournament began last September but was interrupted by bad weather before the final match could be played.

Women Will Enter Archery Murals

Beginning on May 12 and continuing through May 16, archery intramurals will be conducted. The Junior Columbia round will be shot, consisting of 24 arrows at distance 40-30-20.

All entrants must have completed two practice rounds by Friday, May 9, when names of the teams must be submitted. Each sorority or dormitory may enter as many teams as it wishes, with each team consisting of four women. Practice may be held any week day from 1-6 p. m. and on Saturday from 1-5 p. m.

Carol Beinbrink, archery intramural manager, may be contacted for further information.

TRIBE TOPICS

By ED GRIFFIN

Tomorrow at Chapel Hill the William and Mary tennis squad will meet their last major foe of the season when they tackle the University of North Carolina netters, better known as Victor Seixas and Company. After this encounter will come three days of competition in the Southern Conference tournament.

Whether the Tarheels will cause trouble for the rampaging Indians or go the way of the last 37 outfits that faced Coach Sharvy Umbeck's crew will depend to a great extent on the doings of Seixas. His performances thus far have been rather unpredictable.

The rangy Carolina star, who ranks 16th in national singles and teams with Earl Cochell to form the No. 9 doubles combine, has provided little evidence this season to show how he gained this rating. He lost to Ed Ray, although he took the Yale mainstay in a return match; and he was defeated by Charles Oliver, of Army, 6-3, 6-2.

Though each of these men plays good tennis, neither holds a national ranking and it is difficult to see how they could beat Seixas if he were at his best. Perhaps Vic needs tough competition before he can play his best. He'll get plenty of that tomorrow when he meets Gardner Larned who won over Oliver despite an ankle injury.

As for the tournament, it is hard to see how the Braves can fail to come out on top. Of the four nationally-ranked netters who will participate, three are from William and Mary. If last year's performances furnish the basis for seedings, the order will be Larned, Seixas, Fred Kovaleski and Tut Bartzon. The Tribe will also get at least one doubles seeding.

It would be relatively easy for two Indians to meet in the final round and it is not inconceivable to picture four of them in the semis. Barring major upsets, this week should provide some solace for last fall's gridiron disaster engineered by Carl Snaveley and his merry men.

THINGS ABOUT BASEBALL

Dick Gallagher's diamond squad has a pair of most important contests scheduled for this week. They will go to Charlottesville tomorrow seeking revenge against Virginia and will play host to Randolph-Macon's state champions on Saturday.

Some of you perhaps remember the remark of one of the best Yankee hurlers of all time, Lefty Gomez. He said, "I'd rather be lucky than good." Virginia's baseball squad is apparently not so easily satisfied. They like to be lucky and good.

Speaking of Virginia, wouldn't it be nice if the athletic powers-that-be at the school founded by Jefferson would be a little more consistent? They are always ready to give us a hard time in baseball or basketball. They play us in tennis whether they have a chance of winning or not. But I wonder if they will ever again find the courage to send a Cavalier football team onto the same field with William and Mary.

THINGS IN GENERAL

There were some spectators at tennis practice last week who evidently wandered in for lack of something better to do. One of them, who looked like a student, though we hope he isn't, watched Larned and Kovaleski blasting the ball back and forth. Seemingly much interested, he pointed to Gardie and asked, "Who's that guy?" Another one, evidently a tourist, looked the situation over and delivered himself of the following query, "Do you have any good doubles teams at William and Mary?"

Society Elects Tucker As National President

Herbert Tucker was elected the national president of Eta Sigma Phi at the annual convention held in Phi Beta Kappa hall April 3 and 4.

The professional society, which is devoted to the promotion of the interest of classical study of art and literature of Greece and Rome, also elected Dr. A. P. Wagner, chairman of the board of trustees. Twenty-two delegates from nine chapters were present.

Election of national officers and the reestablishment of the organization on a firmer national basis were the main topic of the meeting.

Did You Know That -

Down through the ages, flowers have been worn and carried by women, used to accentuate feminine loveliness. The girls of ancient Rome, of classic Greece and of the Egypt of the Pharaohs strung garlands in their hair . . . while on the other side of the world the Polynesian women of the South Pacific are still pursuing their ancient custom of tucking pretty flowers behind their dusky ears and wearing ropes of them around their necks. A flower is the finest production of the plant and symbolizes the perfect gift — small wonder the popularity of the fresh flower as adornment. Its complement is incomparable; its transient beauty the essence of romance.

Fresh flowers have a place in today's fashion picture. Fashions in flowers and hair-dos change continually, some times even swinging like a pendulum back to a style from the past. Flowers do not go out of fashion. Strictly speaking, the flower varieties themselves are never out-dated, but styles in their presentation and arrangement are subject to change.

It is no longer considered fashionable to use feathers or an abundance of asparagus fern in corsage designing. The past use of unrelated greens that added nothing to the beauty of a corsage has changed and we now use the natural foliage (such as gardenia leaves with gardenias) whenever possible. Otherwise we look for good form and lasting quality in another leaf. For example: camellia leaves, ivy, Baker fern.

Although certain flowers are acknowledged as more formal than others, many of the more common flowers are being used in corsage designing, offering a broader and more interesting field from which to choose.

Notwithstanding these current flower fashions, there are certain precepts for the wearing of flowers which are always requisite and these will be discussed in the next issue.

Nelson Marshall To Head State Fisheries Laboratory

Dr. Nelson Marshall, a member of the department of zoology of the University of North Carolina, will become director of the Virginia fisheries laboratory, on June 1.

Established in 1940, the Virginia fisheries laboratory was the first research organization to become definitely set up at the College. Its objects are to conduct studies and investigations covering the seafood industry and aid in the conservation and development of the fisheries resources of the Tidewater area. Academic credit is given to advanced students in biology working under the staff of the laboratory. The Board of Administration includes President John E. Pomfret and Dr. Donald W. Davis, professor of biology.

Dr. Marshall, received his B. S. degree at Rollins College, Florida; his M. S. degree at Ohio State University and his Ph. D. degree at the University of Florida. Prior to his going to North Carolina, he was a member of the faculty of the University of Connecticut, research fellow at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts, and assistant professor of zoology at the University of Miami. He is now in charge of hydrographic work of a current marine biological survey in North Carolina.

Marshall is a member of Sigma Xi scientific research society, the Ecological Society of America, Limnological Society of America, American Fisheries society, Florida Academy of Science and Elisha Mitchell Scientific society in North Carolina.

Costume Making To Start For Jamestown Pageant

Costume workshop under the direction of Mrs. Roger Sherman began Monday May 5, in the Apollo room for all those interested in making costumes for the annual Jamestown Play which will open July 17.

It is necessary that eight hours a day be spent in the workshop, for over 200 costumes are needed. The workers will be paid from 50 cents to $1 an hour depending on experience and the time they are able to give, Mrs. Sherman said.

forced speech, which rendered him inaudible and unpleasant at times. Charles Hopkins and Billy Hux provided a warm note of uninhibited good humor as the two brothers of Joan.

As the nefarious Archbishop, Sumner Rand turned in a solid performance, while John Manos seemed a little confused in the unsympathetic role of the Bastard of Orleans. Joe Buchanan's excellent stage voice was a welcome relief from the guttural rasping of much of the play. Mary Gerschank's presentation of Joan's mother was clear and more than adequate.

Erwin Drucker, George Wayland, Dick Bethards, Bill Norgeren, Molly Prince, Nancy Adams, and Pat Curran were competent within the limits of their parts.

We regard Joan of Lorraine as a play of few merits, little significance, characterized by an overdose of hollow, sophomoric philosophy. The characterizations were carried off for the most part with considerable knowledge of the roles, a fact which was often lost in the doldrums of weak dialogue. Mr. Anderson's few bright moments of comedy seem to have been appended to the shaky framework of the play, hence the audience was not impressed.

The casting was appropriate in most cases, allowing maximum benefits from the poor vehicle. Makeup was generally an unhappy touch, for in some instances faces were distorted to comical or grotesque appearances. The lighting was one of the two major technical triumphs of the production, the other being the studied but easy knowledge of lines throughout. The sets were some of the best of the year.
